Principal Report.

This term teachers will be attending a number of professional development sessions in order to develop new ideas and improve our skills, so that we can best meet the needs of our students. Last night Mrs Peacock, Mrs White and I attended a professional development session about a film called "Most Likely to Succeed." This was about some new thinking about the way our schools best work. Next Thursday, Mrs Peacock and Mrs White will visit Willaura PS to observe and talk about VCOP.

On Monday we head off to Hamilton to visit Sheepvention. The bus will leave school at 9am. There are still some seats available, so if you would like to come, please contact us.

A big thank you to past student, Will De Fegely, who this week donated some classroom materials and books to our school. It is great to see past students supporting our great school.

With the wet weather upon us, it has been good to see many of our students wearing gum boots in the yard. It may also be a good idea to pack some extra pants and socks in a plastic bag.

Lastly, just a reminder that Parent Opinion Surveys are due back tomorrow.

The Battle for Boys

We have been given the opportunity to run a parent/teacher evening, 'The battle for Boys' which looks at the education and behaviour of male students. The presenter, Ian Hume, is a teacher at Beaufort Primary School and is passionate about boys' roles in society and education. He will also discuss the way boys think and respond the way they do. We have it on very good authority that the session is very worthwhile for parents and teachers to attend. We are seeking expressions of interest. At his stage we hope to run the session on Thursday the 1st of September in the evening, 6:30 or 7:00. Please let Sally know if you are interested in attending.
